Camp Fire Girls In Annual Candy Sale Feb. 1-25

Friday is "M-Day" for the hundreds of girls in the Codornices Council of Camp Fire Girls of Berkeley, Albany, Kensington and El Cerrito. These Blue Birds, Camp Fire Girls and Horizon Club members, dressed in their red, white and blue uniforms, will begin their annual candy sale on that day, selling again the traditional chocolate-covered mint which has been so popular over the past years.

Proceeds from the sale, which continues through February 25, will be used to extend the Camp Fire program in this area, to expand the camping program, and to supplement the treasuries of individual Camp Fire groups in the Codornices Council. The sale also gives the girls experience and training in business procedures and handling money.

"When you buy a box of mints," according to Mrs. William Borden, Council President, "you are helping all the girls in the Camp Fire program to enjoy greater companionship, fun and learning. You are also helping to extend the privileges of membership in Camp Fire to more and more girls in this area eagerly awaiting the opportunity."

Candy sale chairman for the local council is Mrs. Charles Carver. Assisting on the committee are Mrs. David Kinkead, Mrs. M. G. Segerberg, Mrs. Cyril Orley, Miss Norma Way, Mrs. Charles Sager and Mrs. William Duncan.

A Service of the State Bar of California TRIAL BY JURY

Jury trial, which we take so much for granted, has had its own trials. And imperfect as some think our jury system is, we have come a long way toward making it serve the ends of justice.

For centuries, the English used the jury system. Sometimes for injustice. For impartiality and "due process" were late comers. Sometimes the jurors in the early days were the very people who had accused the defendant. In all cases, they were chosen because they knew the people and the facts before the trial.

Often a zealous sheriff would hand-pick and order the jurors to find the accused guilty. He chose them until 1861.

In William Penn's time, the court fined and jailed English jurors for letting anyone off whom the King (or his top officials) wanted convicted.

The year of Magna Carta, 1215, marks the real start of juries in English criminal trials for the church had refused to help any more in trials by ordeal. Without church aid, these horrors had no claim of divine sanction.

In the water ordeal, for example, the court officials tied each hand to the opposite foot and tossed the accused into a pond to find out divine will: "If he did not sink far enough, the court found him guilty. If he sank, the court banished him."

He couldn't win, and he would have welcomed a jury.

In England in 1659 and Massachusetts in 1692 men were pressed to death. England did not officially abolish pressing until 1772. So if you disliked jury trial, you could choose to be pressed under iron weights.

In 1663 one court ordered one poor man's thumbs tied together "so that the pain and a parson might make him think better of his danger, and demand a jury trial." In the reign of Queen Elizabeth I, judges would not hear witnesses "against the queen's majesty." Mary, the Queen of Scots, could get no counsel even though she did not speak English well. English lawyers, in fact, could not present closing arguments for the accused until 1836.

It took centuries for the accused to get the rights to have a lawyer defend him, and to get the right to compel witnesses to come in and testify under oath. This is why our own Bill of Rights in the Constitution is so important. It guarantees the things that help to get a fair and impartial jury and judge.

Editor, Albany Times:

I want to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to the Albany Recall Committee, and the many other citizens who gave me their fine support in the special city election January 17. Mr. H. F. Weller,

Editor, Albany Times:

The ability of the East Bay Municipal Utility District to assure an adequate supply of pure water at low cost to East Bay citizens — now and into the future — owes a very large part of its success to overwhelming public support of its policies and programs. Such support can be achieved only through an intelligent and informed public.

The many news columns which the Albany Times devoted in 1960 to helping EBMUD fulfill its obligation to keep East Bay citizens informed on the progress of their water service and its 10-year, $283-million expansion program has been of great assistance.

My thanks to you and your staff for your continued interest in EBMUD activities and your active cooperation in bringing them

The Debtor

Dr. Johnson now and then borrowed a shilling of me; and when I asked for it again, seemed to be rather out of humor. Once, as if he meant to reprimand my minute exactness as a creditor, he addressed me—"Boswell, lend me sixpence—not to be repaid."

—JAMES BOSWELL (1740-95)
Scottish biographer

A galloping consumption seized my money; Come now—do let me learn the unjust Logic That can shirk debts.

—ARISTOPHANES (c. 445-380 B.C.)
Greek playwright

'Tis a cursed thing to be in debt, and there seems to be a fatality in the exchequers of some poor princes, particularly those of our house, which no Economy can bind down in irons.

—LAURENCE STERNE (1713-68)
British novelist

I can get no remedy against this consumption of the purse: borrowing only lingers and lingers it out, but the disease is incurable.

—SHAKESPEARE
